

Some nonsense on ghosts and heaven

by Talon Delaney

Are there ghosts in heaven?
or is everyone happy and live?
or do ghosts only know
the bitter black smoke
of hell where the wicked lie?
Does it rain in heaven?
Can thunder clap?
Will lightning flash?
Or maybe rain only sang across earthen plains,
and the oceans us mortals pass.
Can you get to heaven,
if your heart is pure and true,
but you never gazed upward or ever wondered
if a god was concerned with you?
What will you do in heaven,
on that day you finally arrive?
Will you proudly decree
with a harp on your knee
what a glory it is to die?
Or will you wonder what came of the others whom you tarried alongside before you ascended
up into the heavens
where too few it seems reside?