Faculty

Dr. Ray D. Hatch, formerly instructor of Veterinary Anatomy, was appointed to the staff of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute at Blacksburg, Va., during the summer. Dr. Hatch will be engaged in teaching and research, and will work under Dr. I. D. Wilson, professor and head of the Department of Biology at the Institute. Dr. Wilson is an alumnus of I.S.C., receiving his D.V.M. in 1914, and his Ph. D. in 1930.

Dr. G. H. Conner is a new member of the Veterinary Clinic staff. Dr. Conner is a graduate of Washington State College, class of 1941.

Dr. Robert Getty has been appointed to the Anatomy Department staff. While at Ohio State University, where he graduated in 1940, Dr. Getty worked under Dr. James D. Grossman, professor of Veterinary Anatomy, Ohio State University, and helped to illustrate the revised edition of The Anatomy of the Domesticated Animals by Sisson and Grossman. Before coming to I.S.C., Dr. Getty was engaged in general practice in Cincinnati, Ohio, and also spent some time with the B.A.I. in Chicago, Ill.

Dr. M. Lois Calhoun, technician in Veterinary Anatomy, spent several weeks this summer in the laboratory of Dr. E. E. Osgood at the University of Oregon.

The annual convention of the A.V.M.A., held in Indianapolis Aug. 10-15, was well attended by members of the faculty. Those in attendance were Dean Charles Murray, Drs. H. D. Bergman, H. L. Foust, George R. Fowler, S. H. McNutt, I. A. Merchant, F. E. Walsh, W. G. Venzke, and Ray D. Hatch.

Dr. Foust was appointed to serve as a member of the Research Council of the A.V.M.A., which is made up of representatives from veterinary colleges of the country. It is the duty of the council to edit the papers appearing in the American Journal of Veterinary Research, and also to set up graduate research projects in various institutions throughout the country. Dr. Foust will be responsible for the fields of Anatomy and Histology.

Dr. Bergman, as chairman of the Subcommittee on Veterinary Items, National Formulary Committee, presented a report on the work of his committee to the House of Representatives of the A.V.M.A.

Papers were presented to the convention by Dr. Walsh and Dr. McNutt. Dr. McNutt's paper, which was prepared in collaboration with Dr. Stearns, was on "Sporadic Bovine Encephalomyelitis; Filtration of the Causal Agent." Dr. Walsh's paper was on "Sterility Due to Ovarian Dysfunction."

Dr. Fowler, who served as Secretary of the Section on Surgery and Obstetrics, conducted a demonstration of chloral anesthesia in the large animal clinic.

Dr. Margaret Sloss, technician in Veterinary Pathology, was putting dishes in her car after a picnic Oct. 8, when she stumbled on a rock. Dr. Sloss was able to save all the dishes from breaking but in so doing suffered a broken bone in her foot.

Dean Murray presented a paper on "Veterinary Education" at a meeting of the Eastern Iowa Veterinary Medical Society in Cedar Rapids on Oct. 8.

Also present at the meeting were Dr. C. D. Lee, Associate Professor of Veterinary Research; Dr. M. J. Johnson, Assistant Professor of Veterinary Surgery; and Dr. H. D. Bergman, Professor of Veterinary Physiology and Pharmacology.

Dr. E. A. Benbrook, head and Professor of Veterinary Pathology, was a speaker at the fourth annual clinic of the Midwest Small Animal Association held in Burlington, Iowa, on Nov. 6. Dr. Benbrook spoke on "Newest Methods in Parasite Diagnosis and Treatment," and "Post-mortem Technic of the Dog."

CHAPTER NEWS

October 1, 1941

At the first meeting of the year, members of the faculty were introduced to the freshman class by Dean Murray. Pres. Hanna read to the chapter the by-laws of the constitution which govern the newly adopted honor code. The code provides that all veterinary students will conduct themselves at all times under an "honor system" which makes conduct in and out of the class-room the responsibility of the individual student. The new code is unique inasmuch as the Veterinary Division is the only division at I.S.C. to have adopted such a code.

After the meeting, the faculty and members were served ice cream, cake and coffee.

October 15, 1941

"So You Want to Be a Veterinarian" was the subject of an interesting talk by Dr. F. B. Young of Waukee, Iowa. Dr. Young discussed the qualities that a veterinarian must possess if he wishes to be a successful practitioner. He pointed out that more than a technical knowledge of veterinary medicine is necessary.

Louis W. Feldman, '42, reported that the representation of the Veterinary Division on the Cardinal Guild had been increased from one to two members. Robert Wahl, '43, was elected as junior representative to serve for two years.

October 29, 1941

Dr. L. E. Harris, of Lincoln, Neb., spoke on "Recent Drug Laws." Dr. Lewis discussed how the veterinarian is affected by the new Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act.
