

Veterinary Medical Laboratory

This $600,000 diagnostic laboratory, built onto the north side of the Veterinary Medicine Quadrangle at Iowa State College, was dedicated July 17, 1956. It is modernly equipped and capably staffed to provide complete diagnostic services for the veterinarians and animal owners of Iowa. The building also houses the Department of Veterinary Hygiene, the Department of Veterinary Pathology and Parasitology, and the Veterinary Library.

Below is a scene from inside the post-mortem room showing the large viewing windows; Dr. V. A. Seaton (left) and Dr. D. F. Johnson at work.

A complete article on the facilities of the Veterinary Medical Laboratory will appear in a later issue.
