

Grecian Elegance

Anthony Wilson, North Carolina State University, USA

Keywords: Elegant, drape

This simple yet elegant Grecian inspired one shoulder dress with asymmetrical strap and dramatic draping detail in back was created in December of 2011 for the elegant, sophisticated woman who is confident and likes making an entrance.

The design process for this garment included sketching to determine its silhouette. Draping pattern making techniques were used to create an original pattern followed by a prototype. The prototype was then fit on a model. After corrections were made to the pattern, the final garment was cut and constructed using a white cotton blend knit jersey and cotton blend contrast strap.

