

Bonnie E. Smith[†]
V IOWA STATE UNIVERSITY
VETERINARIAN

 Fall 2000
 Volume 62 ♦ Number 2
 ISSN 0099-5851

EDITOR
 Bonnie Smith

ASSISTANT EDITOR
 Suzanna Brown

BUSINESS MGR
 Nicholas McClimons
COPY WRITERS
 Sandy Anderson
 Suzanna Brown
 Jennifer Cree
 Jane Galyon
 Brett Kirch
 Jennifer Shackett
 Bonnie Smith
 O. H. V. Stalheim
 Todd Williams
TYPING & LAYOUT
 Suzanna Brown
 Jennifer Cree
 Jennifer Shackett
 Bonnie Smith
FACULTY ADVISOR
 Dr. Mark Ackermann
 Department of Veterinary Pathology
WITH SPECIAL THANKS TO
 Jim Fosse
 Iowa State University
 Biomedical Communications

The year 2000 has brought many changes. Some of them are the usual changes that occur every year: the change from being a "civilian" to being a vet student; the change from being a student to being a veterinarian; the changing of our ages; and the changing of the seasons. Others, however, are changes that we weren't necessarily expecting. Due to changes in the administration, we are now searching for a new dean for the College of Veterinary Medicine, as well as a new president for the university. Curriculum changes have challenged both faculty and students alike. Bud's death signifies somewhat of a "changing of the guard" as we are left to find a new mascot for the veterinary school. The list could go on and on. Good or bad, expected or unexpected, easy or difficult, change is a constant presence in the veterinary profession. We eventually learn to accept it, to embrace it, and even to become agents of it, like Margaret Sloss did. Hers is a good example for us all.

The changes in my life have included a new job as editor of the ISU Veterinarian, and with it, new skills to learn, like a new computer program and the art of managing a staff. Even good changes are not always easy. I have struggled some, but I have learned much more, and the next time, I will do even better. I want to thank everyone who helped to overcome the many obstacles we encountered this semester, such as changing printers, computer problems, and an unfortunately timed trip to India. I think they all know who they are. I apologize for any delay in your receiving this issue, and I sincerely thank you for your continued support of our publication. ♦

[†]Bonnie Smith is a third-year veterinary student at Iowa State University.

The Iowa State University Veterinarian is published twice yearly in Ames, Iowa, in May and December.

CONTRIBUTIONS are welcome, and while every effort will be made to publish those submitted, the Iowa State University Veterinarian assumes no responsibility for the return of the manuscript. For questions regarding advertising rates, please direct inquiries to the business manager at the address below.

EDITORIAL POLICIES and opinions of this publication are not necessarily those of the College of Veterinary Medicine or of other staff members, but are the authors' opinions, which, although they may coincide with the policies of the College of Veterinary Medicine, are not to be taken as synonymous. SUBSCRIPTIONS are available to the general public, regardless of whether the subscriber is an alumnus of Iowa State University. A subscription is included in the dues of members of the Veterinary Medical Alumni Association at ISU. To non-members of the VMAA at Iowa State University, the rate is $15 per year. Single issues are $7.50. Foreign subscriptions are US$20 per year; US$10 per issue.

CORRESPONDENCE can be sent to:

Iowa State University Veterinarian
 College of Veterinary Medicine
 Iowa State University
 Ames, Iowa 50011

FUNDING for the Iowa State University Veterinarian is provided in part by the Veterinary Medical Alumni Association at ISU and the Iowa State University Government of the Student Body.